Internal Quality Assurance Cell Amal College of Advanced Studies

Amal College of Advanced Studies Nilambur stands as a distinguished educational institution, renowned for its unwavering dedication to delivering quality education and fostering holistic development among its students. In its pursuit of excellence, the college established an Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) to systematically monitor and evaluate academic and administrative processes, ensuring the continual enhancement of the institution's overall functioning.

The Vision and Mission

“The vision of IQAC is to ensure quality education that meets the needs of stakeholders, fosters innovation and research, and contributes to national development. The mission of IQAC is to develop a quality culture within the institution, enhance the teaching-learning process, improve research and extension activities, promote community engagement, and ensure effective governance and management practices”

Role and Purpose:

The IQAC at Amal College of Advanced Studies Nilambur assumes a central role in overseeing and assessing various facets of the institution's academic and administrative landscape. Operating with a proactive approach, the IQAC is instrumental in upholding and advancing the institution's commitment to educational excellence, thereby equipping students for a prosperous future. Its primary purpose revolves around maintaining and elevating the quality standards of the institution through regular assessments, constructive feedback mechanisms, and the implementation of enhancement measures.

Important Functions:

Quality Assurance Policies: The IQAC is tasked with developing and implementing quality assurance policies aligned with the guidelines of statutory bodies like the University Grants Commission (UGC) and other relevant authorities.

Academic Excellence: Ensuring the effective design and execution of academic programs to meet desired learning outcomes by monitoring curriculum, teaching methodologies, and assessment procedures.

Institutional Planning: Collaborating with various departments and stakeholders to formulate both short-term and long-term institutional plans geared towards continuous improvement.

Internal Evaluation: Conducting regular evaluations of academic and administrative activities to identify areas of strength and weakness through the analysis of student performance, faculty feedback, and overall institutional performance.

Feedback Mechanism: Implementing feedback mechanisms, including student and faculty feedback surveys, to gather valuable insights for continual improvement.

Quality Enhancement Initiatives: Initiating quality enhancement programs and workshops based on evaluations and feedback to improve teaching-learning processes and the overall campus experience.

Accreditation and Assessment: Facilitating the institutional accreditation process by assisting in the preparation of necessary documentation and coordinating with accrediting agencies.

Student Support Services: Ensuring the provision of necessary support services to students to address both academic and personal needs effectively.

Research and Development: Promoting research activities within the institution by providing resources and support to both faculty and students.

Composition: The IQAC comprises experienced faculty members from various departments, administrative staff, and a student representative. The Convenor of the IQAC is a faculty member demonstrating a strong commitment to delivering quality education. This diverse composition ensures a comprehensive and inclusive approach to quality assurance and enhancement within the institution.

The Panel Discussion on Draft National Education Policy 2019, organized by WWS and IQAC at Amal College of Advanced Studies, was a significant and fruitful endeavor, providing a platform for dialogue and reflection on the future of education in the country.

Hands-on Training on Moodle Workshop

The Internal Quality Assurance Cell at Amal College of Advanced Studies, Nilambur, orchestrated a one-day workshop on Hands-on Training on Moodle on July 6, 2019. Held in the college's computer lab, the workshop aimed to equip faculty members with the necessary skills to utilize Moodle, a Learning Management System (LMS), effectively in their teaching and learning processes.

Resource Persons:The workshop was conducted by two seasoned resource persons, Ashkarali, Assistant Professor at Govt College Tanur, and Dr. Ramesh AR, Assistant Professor at Govt Victoria College, Palakkad. Both experts are well-versed in the field of e-learning, bringing practical experience in utilizing Moodle.

Participants: Twenty Eight faculty members from various departments of the college participated in the workshop. The diverse group included both experienced and new faculty members representing different disciplines. Dr. Dhanya KA, the IQAC Coordinator of the college, also actively participated in the workshop.

The workshop commenced with an introduction to Moodle and an exploration of its features. The resource persons elucidated various tools and activities within Moodle, such as forums, quizzes, assignments, and feedback. Practical demonstrations included creating a course, adding and managing different resources and activities within Moodle.

Hands-on training formed a significant component of the workshop, where participants were tasked with creating a course, adding resources and activities, and managing the course. The resource persons provided individualized guidance and support to ensure effective learning.

Outcome: The workshop achieved its objectives, empowering participants with a comprehensive understanding of Moodle and its features. Participants gained practical experience in utilizing Moodle, enhancing their capability to integrate it seamlessly into their teaching and learning processes. The positive response from participants indicated their readiness to apply their newfound knowledge.

Conclusion: The one-day workshop on Hands-on Training on Moodle, organized by the Internal Quality Assurance Cell of Amal College of Advanced Studies, Nilambur, emerged as a resounding success. The resource persons' expertise and hands-on training significantly contributed to enriching the participants' understanding and skills in utilizing Moodle effectively. The workshop served as a valuable platform for faculty members to learn, share experiences, and enhance their e-learning capabilities. The IQAC Coordinator commended the efforts of the resource persons and congratulated the participants for their active engagement in the workshop. This initiative aligns with the college's commitment to continuous improvement and innovative teaching methodologies.

Professional Development Programme on Team Building Report

The Professional Development Programme on Team Building, conducted collaboratively by the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of Amal College of Advanced Studies, IIM Calicut's Team Building division, and extending to the Chembra Peak Orientation Centre, marked a transformative journey for faculty members. Spanning from July 12 to July 17, 2019, this comprehensive program, inclusive of both physical and virtual components, aimed to elevate professional skills and foster a robust sense of teamwork within the academic community.

Collaborative Framework: Initiated at Amal College of Advanced Studies, the program seamlessly transitioned into the esteemed premises of IIM Calicut, and further extended to the Chembra Peak Orientation Centre. This unique collaborative framework ensured a diverse and enriching experience, combining the academic prowess of Amal College, the strategic insights of IIM Calicut, and the natural inspirations of the Chembra Peak Orientation Centre.

Lectures and Discussions: Renowned experts from IIM Calicut conducted insightful lectures covering effective teaching techniques, research methodologies, and leadership skills. The transition to Chembra Peak Orientation Centre provided a unique outdoor learning perspective.

Practical Workshops: Hands-on activities and workshops, both on-site and virtually, equipped participants with practical tools and strategies applicable to their roles as educators and leaders.

Team-Building Exercises: Conducted at various locations, including the Chembra Peak Orientation Centre, these exercises aimed to strengthen interpersonal relationships and foster collaborative efforts.

Interactive Sessions: Group discussions, both in-person and through online platforms, facilitated the exchange of ideas, creating a collaborative learning atmosphere.

Participant Engagement: Thirty Five teachers from diverse departments actively participated in the program, bringing a wealth of perspectives. Notable figures, including Dr. Abdul Sakkir PM, the Principal of Amal College, and Dr. Dhanya KA, the IQAC Coordinator, contributed to the dynamic and enriching sessions.

Conclusion: The "Professional Development Programme on Team Building" not only traversed physical locations but also embraced virtual platforms, symbolizing the adaptability of contemporary professional development. Beyond imparting knowledge, the program successfully instilled a collaborative spirit within the academic community, fostering a conducive environment for collective growth. Participant feedback highlighted the program's informativeness, practical relevance, and its positive impact on professional development. The integration of physical and virtual components, along with exposure to diverse learning environments, contributed to a well-rounded and immersive experience.

The program's innovative design allowed it to transcend traditional limitations, seamlessly transitioning between physical locations and virtual platforms. This dual approach recognized the evolving nature of professional development, ensuring accessibility and engagement irrespective of the participants' physical locations.

By embracing both physical and virtual components, the program symbolized the adaptability required in the ever-evolving landscape of professional development. This adaptability is crucial in catering to diverse learning preferences, accommodating varied schedules, and addressing the challenges posed by global circumstances, such as travel restrictions or unforeseen events.

The success of the program extended beyond the mere transmission of knowledge. It successfully fostered a collaborative spirit within the academic community, emphasizing the collective growth and synergy that arises from effective teamwork. This collaborative ethos is essential for creating an environment conducive to shared learning, mutual support, and collective achievements. The deliberate integration of physical and virtual components ensured a well-rounded and immersive experience for participants. The program acknowledged the importance of experiential learning, offering hands-on activities and on-site experiences alongside the convenience and accessibility of virtual interactions. This synthesis contributed to a richer learning environment, catering to diverse learning styles and preferences.

The program's incorporation of diverse learning environments, including the natural inspirations of the Chembra Peak Orientation Centre, provided a unique and enriching backdrop. Exposure to varied settings not only enhanced the learning experience but also encouraged participants to approach challenges with creativity and adaptability. The "Professional Development Programme on Team Building" serves as a paradigm for contemporary professional development, showcasing adaptability, innovation, and a commitment to fostering a collaborative and conducive environment for the collective growth of academic communities.

Programme Report: Parents and Alumni Meet

The Parents and Alumni Meet, a collaborative initiative by the Internal Quality Assurance Cell and the College Management of Amal College of Advanced Studies, Nilambur, was a highly successful event held offline on 30th July 2019. The primary objective of the event was to bring together alumni and their parents, fostering a platform for meaningful discussions on their experiences at the college. The event also aimed to gather valuable feedback to enhance the quality of education and services provided by the college.

Attendance: A total of 53 parents and students actively participated in the programme, contributing to the diversity of perspectives shared during the event.

Activities: The programme commenced with a welcoming address by the college management, setting the tone for the event. A brief introduction to the Internal Quality Assurance Cell and its pivotal role in ensuring educational quality and service standards was provided.

Alumni were then invited to share their personal experiences at the college and reflect on the impact it had on their lives. Subsequently, parents had the opportunity to offer feedback on the college's performance and suggest areas for improvement. The feedback collected during the session was systematically analyzed by the Internal Quality Assurance Cell to identify specific areas for enhancement.

A crucial part of the programme included a panel discussion featuring faculty members and alumni. This discussion focused on the challenges faced by students and the proactive measures taken by the college to address these challenges. An interactive question-and-answer session allowed the audience to actively engage, seeking clarification and sharing their perspectives.

Conclusion: The Parents and Alumni Meet proved to be a resounding success, serving as an effective platform for constructive discussions among the college management, alumni, and parents. The feedback received during the event was instrumental in identifying areas for improvement, which the Internal Quality Assurance Cell is diligently addressing. The commitment of the college management to providing quality education and services to its students was evident throughout the event, and it remains steadfast in its pursuit of continuous improvement to achieve this goal. The success of this initiative highlights the importance of ongoing engagement with stakeholders in fostering a culture of excellence within the institution.

On March 3, 2020, the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) at Amal College of Advanced Studies, Nilambur, orchestrated a landmark event titled "Quality Initiative and Innovation Eco System." This distinguished gathering was designed to serve as a catalyst for promoting excellence and fostering a culture of innovation within the academic community. At the heart of this event was a keynote address delivered by Shri V K Mathews, Chairman of IBS, Bangalore, a luminary in the field of education and innovation.

Objectives of the programme

The primary objectives of the event were to promote and instill a sense of quality consciousness among the faculty, staff, and students, and to cultivate an innovation-centric ecosystem within the institution. Recognizing the dynamic nature of the educational landscape, the event aimed to spark discussions, share insights, and inspire participants to embrace quality initiatives and innovative practices.

Welcome Address: Dr. P M Abdul Sakir, extended a warm welcome to the participants, setting the tone for an insightful and engaging session.

Chairperson's Opening Remarks: Fostering Quality and Innovation in Education

The Chairperson, Shri. P V Alimubarak, the President of the College Managing Committee, set the tone for the Quality Initiative and Innovation Eco System event at Amal College of Advanced Studies, Nilambur, with impactful opening remarks. He commenced his remarks by underlining the paramount importance of quality in education. He articulated that education, to be truly transformative, must be rooted in a commitment to excellence. Shri. Alimubarak emphasized that quality education is a cornerstone in preparing students not just for academic success but for the challenges of an ever-evolving world. Recognizing the dynamic nature of education, Shri. Alimubarak passionately advocated for fostering innovation within the institution. He highlighted that innovation is not a luxury but a necessity in an era where knowledge is advancing rapidly. Shri. Alimubarak urged the academic community to embrace a culture of innovation, encouraging educators to explore novel methodologies, technologies, and approaches to enhance the learning experience.

Keynote Address by Shri V K Mathews: Nurturing an Innovation Ecosystem in Education

On the occasion of the Quality Initiative and Innovation Eco System event, Amal College of Advanced Studies, Nilambur, the distinguished keynote speaker, Shri V K Mathews, Chairman of IBS, Bangalore, delivered a captivating address that resonated with visionary insights and practical wisdom. Shri Mathews, renowned for his leadership in the industry, offered a profound exploration into the critical facets of fostering an innovation ecosystem within the educational landscape. Shri V K Mathews commenced his address by drawing from his extensive experience in the industry, providing a unique perspective rooted in practical insights. With a background as the Chairman of IBS, Bangalore, Shri Mathews brought a wealth of knowledge that bridged the gap between academic theory and real-world application.

Shri Mathews navigated through the intricacies of fostering an innovation ecosystem within the educational sphere. He shed light on the dynamic interplay between quality and innovation, emphasizing that these elements are not disparate but intricately connected components that contribute to the overall enhancement of the educational experience. The keynote address transcended the immediate context, providing a visionary perspective on the role of quality and innovation in shaping the future of education. Shri Mathews articulated a forward-looking vision that encouraged the integration of cutting-edge technologies, creative teaching methodologies, and adaptive learning environments to meet the evolving needs of students and society.

Shri Mathews delved into the symbiotic relationship between quality and innovation. He underscored the notion that a commitment to quality serves as the bedrock for fostering an innovation-rich environment. Quality, in this context, became not just a benchmark but a catalyst for pushing boundaries and exploring uncharted territories within education. Throughout his address, Shri Mathews inspired the audience with the idea that innovation is a continuous journey. He encouraged educators to embrace a mindset of perpetual improvement, emphasizing that the pursuit of excellence is a dynamic process that requires adaptability, resilience, and a willingness to explore new horizons.

Vote of Thanks: Dr. Dhanya K A, Coordinator of IQAC, expressed gratitude to the speakers and participants for their active involvement. She highlighted the importance of such events in promoting a culture of continuous improvement and excellence.

Conclusion: The Quality Initiative and Innovation Eco System event organized by the IQAC at Amal College of Advanced Studies proved to be a valuable platform for discussions on quality in education and the necessity of fostering innovation. The insightful keynote address by Shri V K Mathews enriched the understanding of the participants and inspired a collective commitment to quality and innovation within the academic ecosystem. The event concluded with a sense of enthusiasm and a renewed focus on implementing quality initiatives for the holistic development of the institution. The IQAC looks forward to organizing similar events that contribute to the continuous enhancement of educational standards at Amal College

Faculty Development and Professional Development Programmes

The Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of our college is at the forefront of empowering faculty through strategic interventions. One of our key strategies involves actively promoting participation in professional development programs offered by esteemed institutions at both national and international levels. Additionally, we place a strong emphasis on encouraging faculty to utilize online training programs to continuously enhance their skills.

Participation in these development initiatives provides faculty members and administrative staff with invaluable opportunities for learning. They gain access to a diverse range of experiences, cutting-edge methodologies, and best practices from around the world. This exposure not only enriches their knowledge but also strengthens their pedagogical, research, and administrative skills. It fosters a culture of lifelong learning among faculty, ensuring they remain updated with the latest trends and advancements in their fields.

Beyond promoting external programs, the IQAC takes proactive measures to organize such initiatives internally. We leverage both in-house resources and external collaborations with reputable agencies, nationally and internationally, to offer a wide array of faculty development and professional development opportunities.

These programs are thoughtfully organised to address the definite needs and challenges faced by faculty members. Topics range from pedagogy and research methodologies to administrative competencies and technological advancements. By leveraging our internal expertise and external networks, we ensure a holistic and dynamic learning experience for our faculty.

Policy of Incentive for Staff members

The policy of providing incentives to staff members for their contributions to enhancing the quality of education within the college embodies a proactive approach to acknowledge and reward excellence. Spearheaded by the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC), this initiative serves as a catalyst to inspire faculty members to actively participate in activities that elevate institutional practices. While recognizing achievements such as quality publications, seminar and workshop participation, and engagement in faculty development programs, the IQAC also values other significant contributions. These may include the introduction of innovative teaching methods, effective mentorship of students in research endeavors, the execution of impactful community outreach initiatives, and assuming leadership roles in academic committees or administrative functions that enhance the overall educational environment. The recognition and rewarding of Eighteen faculty members for their efforts in enhancing quality during the academic year 2019-20 serve as tangible evidence of the effectiveness of this incentivization policy. It not only acknowledges their dedication and hard work but also fosters a culture of continuous improvement and excellence within the college community.

Conclusion

Throughout the academic year 2019-2020, the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) continued its pivotal role in spearheading quality enhancement initiatives across various domains of the college's academic framework.

Employing a comprehensive strategy, the IQAC embarked on several endeavors aimed at raising the standards of teaching, learning, and research within the institution.

In addition to coordinating faculty development and professional development programs, the IQAC prioritized the implementation of orientation and induction programs for new students. These initiatives were instrumental in ensuring a seamless transition for incoming students while fostering a sense of community and purpose right from the onset of their academic journey.

Recognizing the indispensable role of technology in modern education, the IQAC directed efforts towards bolstering office automation and enriching ICT-enabled teaching-learning activities. Leveraging state-of-the-art tools and platforms, the college delivered interactive and personalized learning experiences tailored to cater to diverse student needs and learning preferences.

Moreover, the IQAC instituted robust quality audit mechanisms and monitoring systems to continuously assess and refine teaching, learning, and assessment methodologies. Through regular evaluations and feedback mechanisms, the college-maintained alignment with established standards and best practices, thereby nurturing a culture of ongoing improvement and excellence.

In its holistic approach to quality enhancement, the IQAC integrated initiatives spanning faculty development, student support, technological integration, and rigorous evaluation mechanisms. By championing these initiatives, the IQAC reaffirmed the college's commitment to providing a transformative educational experience that empowers students and equips them with the skills and knowledge necessary for success in an ever-evolving global landscape.
